

Oregon Dunes designated route process shifts gears - public input needed!

For nearly two years, the Siuslaw National Forest has been studying the impact of newly designated routes within the Oregon Dunes National Recreation Area, a process that has drawn both support and concern from residents and local businesses that would be affected by changes to the existing plan.

Now, the Siuslaw National Forest is shifting its gears and looking for public input on its proposal to designate off-highway vehicle routes in part of the Oregon Dunes National Recreation Area \(NRA\).

Under the existing Management Plan for the Oregon Dunes NRA, about 6,000 acres of sand are open riding areas and close to 17,500 acres are reserved for non-motorized uses.

10C Designated Routes Project #34220

COMMENTING ON THIS PROJECT

The Forest Service values public input. Comments received, including respondents' names and addresses, will become part of the public record for this proposed action. Comments submitted anonymously will be accepted and considered; however, anonymous comments will not provide the agency with the ability to provide you with project updates.
